

Identity

Series Overview

Who are you? Are you defined by your accomplishments or your failures or what others think of you? Is your identity determined by your politics or your ethnicity or your gender? It's a vitally important question, because our outward lives flow from our inner sense of identity, either for good or for bad. This is why we need Paul's letter to the Ephesians. It's like a wise counselor, a godly pastor, and a challenging trainer, all coming together to show us the way to a deeper, more solid identity—one that's only possible through the gospel of Christ.
